BPCL

Demanding valuation

The Bharat Petroleum Corporation (BPCL) stock rallied ~33% and outperformed the Sensex by ~22% over the last 6M. However, we believe the current market price is still factoring in very optimistic earnings growth on the back of a very strong FY24. With crude oil prices rising by ~5% from average prices seen in Q4FY24 and rising ~12% to over USD 86/bbl over the last month, we expect this to adversely impact BPCL's marketing segment profitability, going ahead. Additionally, with weaker-than-expected global demand for transportation fuels and increased refined product supplies, we reiterate our stance of refining margins moderating from higher-than-average transportation fuel crack spreads seen in FY24, which should impact the contribution from its refining segment too. Therefore, we maintain our REDUCE rating with a target price of INR 275/sh.

- Moderation in refining margin: Diesel crack spreads in Q1FY25 declined to USD 16.3/bbl, down 29% QoQ, while gasoline cracks in Q1FY25 declined to USD 8.8/bbl, down 33% QoQ. As highlighted earlier, the cracks were largely impacted by moderation in demand and the increase in refined product supplies. We expect BPCL's GRMs at USD 8.4/8.7 per bbl over FY25/26E, implying a gross margin of INR ~206/216bn for FY25/26 compared to INR 350bn in FY24. Our sensitivity analysis suggests that every USD 1/bbl change in GRM impacts BPCL's FY25/26E EPS by 16.6/14.8% or INR 8.6/8.7 per share.
- Rise in crude oil price impacts auto fuel marketing margins: With crude oil prices rising ~5% from Q4FY24 average prices to over USD ~86/bbl, our estimated gross marketing margins on petrol and diesel declined in Q1FY25 to INR 2.5/ltr and INR 0.1/ltr from INR 5.6/ltr and INR 0.7/ltr in Q4FY24 $\,$ respectively, translating to a gross margin of INR 294/308bn in FY25/26 compared to INR 376bn in FY24. We continue to maintain our stance of oil marketing companies making normal gross marketing margins (as opposed to super normal margins seen over the last 18 months). Therefore, for BPCL, we factor in blended gross marketing margins of INR 4.6/4.6 per litre for FY25/26E. Every INR 0.5/litre change in gross marketing margin impacts BPCL's FY25/26E EPS by 22.5/20.8% or INR 11.8/12.3 per share.
- Increase in capex intensity: BPCL has committed a capex of INR 1.7trn over FY25-29, implying an annual capex outgo in the range of INR 160-200bn over the next five years compared to a capex of INR 117bn in FY24. This increase in capex intensity on the back of muted refining and marketing profitability could add pressure to the balance sheet. Given the high capex guidance for the next five years, we expect consolidated net debt to remain elevated at INR 284/322bn in FY25/26E.
- Valuation: Given the recent rally in the stock price and demanding valuation at the current market price, we maintain our REDUCE rating owing to the unfavourable risk-reward. The stock is trading at 12.2x FY25E EPS, 1.5x FY25E P/Bv and 7.8x FY25E EV/EBITDA. Our SOTP valuation delivers a target price of INR 275/sh (adj. for 1:1 bonus shares), factoring in BPCL's refining and marketing segment at 5.5x EV/E, and investments at a 25% discount to CMP.
